The Best Bad Luck I Ever Had
Kristin Levine

Tensions bubble under the surface of this poignant tale about a small town boy's unlikely friendship with the new postmaster's daughter and their dangerous plan to beat injustice.

Larry and the Meaning of Life
Janet Tashjian

Larry (aka Josh) is so depressed he can hardly get off the couch, but after meeting a spiritual guru at Walden Pond who convinces him to join his study group/cult, things take a turn--if not for the better, at least for the wackier. This is the third installment in the hilarious Larry series, but it'll also stand alone just fine.

The Lindbergh Child
Rick Geary

Noted graphic novelist Rick Geary takes on the eerie, complicated, and potentially unsolved kidnap-murder of celebrity aviator Charles A. Lindbergh's infant son in the first of a promising graphic series on 10th century murder. Fascinating and pretty disturbing.

The Forest of Hands and Teeth
Carrie Ryan

Orphaned Mary seeks knowledge of life, love, and especially what lies beyond her fenced-in village and the surrounded forest, where dwell the Unconsecrated, frightening man-eating undead. Fans of supernatural romance or postapocalyptic fiction will love this new author.
